DISCLAIMER

The information on this website is provided as a public service by Devlin Gailus, Barristers and Solicitors, and is not intended to provide or contain legal advice. The use of this website is subject to and constitutes the user’s agreement to the terms and conditions noted below.

Information on this website is provided by Devlin Gailus, Barristers and Solicitors, solely for the user’s information and it is provided without warranty, guarantee, or responsibility of any kind, either expressed or implied. Although we make every effort to ensure that all information is accurate and complete, we cannot guarantee its integrity, or that the information is current or accurate. You should not, under any circumstance, rely on any of the legal information contained in our website without first consulting us or your own legal counsel. If you would like to discuss a specific legal matter, please contact one of lawyers, who can be of assistance to you.

COPYRIGHT/PERMISSION TO REPRODUCE

Materials on this website were produced and/or compiled by Devlin Gailus, Barristers and Solicitors, for the purpose of providing direct access to information related to ongoing court cases. In instances where court decisions or reasons for judgment are listed, the particular court in question is the copyright owner of the information unless otherwise stated. Therefore, if a user wishes to use or reproduce a court decision or reasons for judgment, the user should first obtain permission from the particular court.

Where a court grants permission to use or reproduce court decisions or reasons, it would be prudent that:

- Users exercise due diligence in ensuring the accuracy and currency of the materials reproduced;
- The individual court, identified by name, be identified as the source; and
- The reproduction is not represented as an official version of the material reproduced, or as having been made in affiliation with or with the endorsement of the individual court.

All other content on this website belongs to Devlin Gailus, Barristers and Solicitors, and may not used or reproduced, in whole or in part, by any means without expressed written permission.
